A POLITICAL DISCUSSION

Winds up in a Quarrel Between the Speakers.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 9.—Yesterday

at Appomattox court house, Capt. George

S. Blair, a republican, and A. A. Pfeiffer, a democrat, speakers at a political meeting turned a friendly greeting after the speeches into a quarrel during which Pfeiffer struck Blair in the face and several blows passed. Friends interposed, however, and several persons grasped Pfeiffer's hand. It is said by these present that while Pfeiffer was being held Blair struck him a light blow in the face, which so incensed a young

Lynchburger, who was present, that the latter knocked Blair down. A report is also current that an attempt was made to cut Blair by some one in the crowd, but nothing definite as to that can be learned.

WITH OPIUM.

A Despondent Woman Commits

Suicide.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Oct. 9.—Some weeks ago Clarence Clark, formerly a wealthy druggist, committed suicide, and yesterday afternoon his wife took opium and died. Mrs. Clark was a member of one of the most respectable families in this state and formerly lived in Williamsport. Soon after their marriage Clark took to drinking heavily and lost all his money. The wife became depressed and became a confirmed opium eater. They lived miserably in a hotel.

After her husband's death she drank worse, and yesterday afternoon she was found dead in her bed with a phial of opium in her hand. By her side was a note, which read: "I have wasted my life and don't want to live longer."

SHOOTING REDSKINS.

For a Reward Offered for Their

Scalps.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

DEMING, N. M., Oct. 9.—Reports are coming in from various parts of Arizona that the old pioneers of that territory, tempted by the reward of $250 for Indian scalps, made by several of the counties in Arizona, have started out on a hunt for red skins with a view of obtaining their scalps. They think this is the most practicable method yet suggested of forever ending Apache Indian war.

THE STRIKE

Of Street Car Men at St. Louis.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 9.—The situation regarding the strike of street car men presents no marked changes from that of yesterday but there is a feeling of great uncertainty and expectation of further violence. All lines are running some cars and several are doing nearly if not quite full service.

LATER.

This afternoon the strikers assembled and tumbled a dozen street cars into the gutter. The passengers were not permitted to get out and many were seriously bruised. The new drivers and conductors were roughly handled.

The Rambling Talk of Foraker on Mat-

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Joint Discussion Between Messrs.

Hoadly and Foraker.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

TOLEDO, O., October 8.—The audiences which assembled to hear the Hoadly-Foraker debate, to-night filled Wheelers opera house to the utmost. Judge John H. Doyle was chairman of the meeting on the part of the Republicans and Hon. Frank Hurd for the Democrats. The time of the speakers was limited as follows: Governor Hoadly opened with one hour;

Judge Foraker then occupied an hour and a half and Hoadly closed with half an hour.

Governor Hoadly in opening, declared that the most important issue in the campaign is the question of personal liberty and how far it should be interfered with by law, as to habits of drinking. He then proceeded to define the position of each party on the liquor question, by reading the platforms of each. He defined the plan in the Republican platform recognizing the right of the people to amend the organic law of state, to mean that the Republicans favor the prohibitory amendment and argued that the point was, how far the law may go to regulate the personal habits of the citizens of the state. The answer to it, depended on the answer to another question, "Is drinking a vice?"

Is it harmful or wrong to take one glass of beer or wine? Is a man to be allowed to indulge in moderate drinking which can do him no harm? If drinking be a vice, selling liquor is a vice, but if a man of self-control, who takes a drink on a farm, does no harm, then he does no harm to drink in a saloon." He referred to the local option feature of the Scott law and anathematized the Scott law for this feature. He defined himself as opposed to partial prohibition or total prohibition and in favor of personal freedom to the fullest extent.

The speaker elaborated the point that if wrong in all one place right in all. The conclusion was that legislation must be directed against the evils of liquor drinking, but not against drinking itself. This was in the right direction of temperance legislation, within cities or without. He stated that prohibition is a failure;

in Maine, in Kansas and in Iowa.

He insisted that prohibition is the issue in Ohio, because the next legislature will be asked to pass prohibition legislation. He desired to know if Foraker is elected governor, whether he will,

in his message, recommend the submission to the people of the prohibi-

A QUESTION ABOUT Brown's Iron Bitters ANSWERED.

The question has been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe blood-purifying medicine. It is the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, no perfectly reliable combination had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, the best, cause headache, or produce constipation, all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Bilelessness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments iron is prescribed daily.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, not cure in a minute. Like all other therapeutic medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by one the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the host of the active system begins to once again, the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular and if a nursing mother, abundant milk is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is non-injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it. The Genuine has Trade Mark and crossed red lines on wrapper. TAKE NO OTHER.

GRANDMOTHER

Used herbs in doctoring the family, and her simple remedies DID CURE in most cases. Without the use of herbs, medical science would be powerless; and yet the tendency of the times is to neglect the best of all remedies for those powerful medicines that seriously injure the system.

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

Is a combination of valuable herbs, carefully compounded from the formula of a regular Physician who used this preparation largely in his private practice with great success. It is not a drink, but a medicine used by many thousands of people. It is invaluable for DYSPEPSIA, KIDNEY and LIVER COMPLAINTS, NERVOUS DEBILITY, CHILLS AND FEVERS, INDIGESTION, &c., and while curing will not hurt the system.

Mr. C. J. Rhodes, a well-known iron man of Safe Harbor, Pa., writes: "My son was completely prostrated by fever and ague. Quinine and barks did him no good. I then sent for Mishler's Herb Bitters and in a short time the boy was well."

"E. A. Schellenger, Druggist, 717 St. Clair Street, Cleveland, O., writes: "Your Bitters, I can say, and do say, are prescribed by some of the wisest and most prominent physicians in our city."

Funds are being raised to erect a soldiers' monument at Elkhart.

MICHIGAN has a new law exempting all honorably discharged union soldiers from the payment of poll tax.

The subject of convict labor is one that has this year entered into the platform of both parties in several states.

Noble county is out of debt, and her citizens are now ready to talk up the new court house, which they are said to be badly in need of.

The Times, Puck and Evening Post, of New York, Cleveland papers last year, now advocate the election of the republican ticket in that state.

The trees on 10,274,989 acres of land were consumed by fire during the last census period. The time is coming when a forest of great trees will be a richer treasure than any gold mine.

The state elections to be held this year are as follows: Ohio, Oct. 13; Virginia, Nov. 2; New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Iowa and Minnesota, Nov. 3; Connecticut, Nov. 4.

In a decision just rendered by Judge Chipman, of the Detroit superior court, it is held that patent medicines are not among the necessities of life, and that an agreement between manufacturers and dealers to maintain their price is therefore not against public policy.

The Inter-Ocean puts this significant question: "Is it not a little strange that a man will higgler over the prices he pays for the necessities of life for his family, which he buys at a profit to the dealer of from 10 to 15 per cent., and yet the same man never higgles over the price of his whisky or beer bills, where the dealer clears 200 per cent?"

The city election of Indianapolis, which is exciting considerable interest, will be held next Tuesday, the 13th inst. The chances of the two parties are about equal. The independents have returned to the republican party and are supporting the candidates of the old ring; but the defection is more than met by democratic accessions from the working class.

A letter from the Sandwich islands, addressed "General Grant, the U. S.," recalls an anecdote told of Benjamin Franklin, who at one time sent a communication to his friend, "Samuel Johnson, Great Britain." Not to be outdone, Johnson returned the compliment by directing his answer to "Benjamin Franklin, The World," which was duly delivered.

The supreme court in various states, with laws like ours, have decided that the acts of a township trustee in excess of his authority, a void as against the township. A fair construction of our law would give the trustee power to buy only "necessary supplies," and assuredly "necessary" means only what is necessary now—not what may be so in three, five or eight years hence. So it seems that gentlemen who have bought township orders in large quantities have made a permanent investment.

The city of Philadelphia is using the electric light, as also gas, and has found that since the introduction of the former there has been more gas used. The amount used last year was 125,000,000 feet more than during the previous year, and all the indications point to an equal increase for the current year. The only reasonable explanation for this fact is that the use of the electric light has given a desire for greater brilliancy, and those persons having gas, but not electric light, have burned more in order that they might be as brilliant as their neighbors who use the electric light and, being accustomed to the increased brilliancy while abroad, went home to feel dissatisfied with the light furnished by one gas jet, and so turned on three or four.

Scrofula diseases manifest themselves in the spring. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses the blood, and removes every taint of scrofula.

A VERY UNPLEASANT OLD LADY.

From Evansville Courier.

One of the most cheerful old ladies it has been the writer's good fortune to meet, is Mrs. Worland, who lives at 487 Virginia avenue, and is the mother of Mr. Charles Worland, the well known collector. Barring there on a recent sunshiny morning, he found Mrs. Worland as sunny as sunshine itself.

"How about that old indigestion of yours, Mrs. Worland? Is it gone?"

"Pretty much gone, I thank you, sir. And the heart trouble which I had is gone, too. I had some kind of heart disease, I hardly know what the doctors would call it, but it makes little matter what the name of it would be, for it has left me entirely. It was sometimes a curious feeling which I cannot exactly describe."

"And was it by the use of Brown's Iron Bitters that you were relieved of both these difficulties?"

"Entirely so, for I took no other medicine. I had heard that this medicine had done good to some of my friends and therefore I tried it. I do not believe in taking several medicines at a time, as some people do, for then you never know which one of all of them it is that does you any good. No! I took this Brown's Iron Bitters by itself, and gave it a fair chance; and it did the fair thing for me, and so I shall always speak well of it. I regard myself now as well as a woman of my age can expect to be."

From the house of Mrs. Worland the writer went to that of Mr. J. H. Smith, 220 Indiana avenue, Indianapolis, to see if Mr. Smith's daughter, Miss Ida, had entirely got rid of her malarial trouble.

Mrs. Smith, who came to the door, remarked, "Ida is not at home now, but she is perfectly well. That Brown's Iron Bitters is a great medicine, and I very valuable tonic. It helped Ida along handsomely, and some of the rest of us, and several of our neighbors have been using it with great advantage."

So we see that Brown's Iron Bitters is a grand and good thing both for the old and the young. Its peculiar preparation of iron, which, by the way, is the only preparation that can be taken without mischievous results, enriches the blood in a wonderful manner. As a tonic it builds up the most weakened system. This is done gently by the giving of real strength, and not by any such stimulants as capsaicum or liquor which temporarily afford.

To tone up the dyspeptic stomach and drive away the horrors of indigestion, to remove the troubles of a disordered liver, to set to rights the ailing kidneys, to cure the nervous and sick headache, and the host of nervous diseases which worry the life half out of suffering women, there is nothing in the world like Brown's Iron Bitters.

But be sure you get the genuine article and see that you inquire for it under its full and proper name. Its great popularity has brought into the market several imitators and counterfeiters.

The rich green mold which lovers of Roquefort cheese enjoy is called "Penicillium glaucum," and is made artificially. Roquefort is made from sheep's milk, and the interesting vegetation is secured by making bread of wheat, barley flour, and vinegar, allowing it to get moldy, and sprinkling a few of the moldiest crumbs in the curd that is to become cheese. In the apartments in which Roquefort is prepared "the phenomenon"—i. e., the fungus—"is introduced as far as possible." It is in such things as this that the effete civilization of the old world leads us.

Eczema!

For the benefit of suffering humanity, and in heartfelt gratitude at the wonderful result I deem it only my duty to give this unsolicited testimony in favor of Swift's Specific. My wife has been afflicted with hereditary Eczema or Salt Rheum from her infancy. It has increased in intensity with each succeeding spring, and being somewhat skilled in medicine myself, I tried every remedy I could think of for years—Sarsaparilla combined with every form of Potassio and hundreds of other remedies, lotions and alkali washes of every known kind, but they all gave only temporary relief. During the spring of 1884 her lower extremities became so inflamed and sore that she was obliged to keep them constantly coated with a cover of "Fuller's Earth," mixed wet and allowed to dry on. Among other things, she was afflicted with a periodical nervous headache, occurring regularly every seven days, sometimes followed by an intermittent fever for weeks at a time, so that her life became a burden to her.

This spring I determined she should take S. S. and follow strictly the directions in regard to dose, diet, etc. This was about seven weeks ago. After taking the first large bottle the disease seemed to increase; the burning, itching and inflammation became unbearable. She, however, persevered in the use of the medicine. After taking the second bottle the inflammation began to subside. After the third bottle the inflammation disappeared and sore spots dried up and turned white and scaly, and finally she brushed them off in an impalpable white powder resembling pure salt. She is now taking the sixth bottle, three tablespoonful four times daily. Every appearance of the disease has gone, and her flesh is becoming soft, white and smooth again; and what is more, her periodical headaches have disappeared and she is now, at 53 years of age, enjoying the only good health she has known for upwards of 40 years. No wonder she declares with emphasis that every bottle of S. S. is worth a thousand times its weight in gold.

Any further information concerning her case will be cheerfully given by herself at her residence, 165 Mulberry street, or by mail.

RIP VAN WINKLE'S HOME.

Catskill Indian Warriors Who "Control" Sensitive Wanderers.

HENDRICK HUDSON.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

CATSKILL MOUNTAINS, July 15, 1885. All New Yorkers must have a summer vacation somewhere, and the Catskills caught us, so here we are, elevated about 3000 feet above tide water and the valleys beneath, breathing fog with reckless impunity, and listening to fairy tales of the gnomes and spectres which inhabit these hallowed hills, and the mythical trout which are to be caught "in the next pool," or "the other trout creek," a few miles away.

That gnomes and spectres, wood nymphs and sprites do still flit about the Catskills, nobody for an instant doubts, and if they did, a few trips by moonlight alone over the hills and dales, the peaks and ravines of this historic region would settle beyond cavil that this is the special spot beloved by the spectres, and has been ever since poor

HENDRICK HUDSON'S GHOST

Rip Van Winkle met the famous Hendrick Hudson band of ghosts, and partook of their drowsy liquor.

If the natives are to be believed, and "their word is as good as eighteen karat gold sir, every time," old Hendrick and his quaint Dutch friends, still return and play a solemn game of ninepins in the mountains, at dead of night every twenty years, and take lingering looks at the winding Hudson river below, and many a pull from their gin flacons, before disappearing into the caves for another score of years. Hendrick Hudson can be seen by those who are trusting by nature, and true believers. He always carries a ninepin and ball, and will politely challenge you for a game, if prepossessed by your appearance. The mere mention of poker, however, as a substitute, retires Hendrick at once, John A. Logan, or some equally gifted senator having once upon a time suggested it to the sorrow of the queer old fellow, who has since stuck religiously to ninepins.

CATSKILL INDIANS.

Too, return to these haunted hills, and many a warrior whose spirit ought to be at rest in the happy hunting grounds, wanders restlessly up and down the Catskills as if loth to leave the scenes where they exchanged so many good furs for so little bad firewater, and so few pretty beads. With bows and arrows, with rifles and tomahawks, and blankets and furs, they re-appear, and in silence and solitude re-enact the scenes in which they played their part while living.

The live Indians went westward toward the setting sun and the rising Indian agent, settled on rocky reservations and raised Cain with the settlers, and the mighty armies of Uncle Sam sent against them until to-day it is an open question whether one buck can outflank only one company or ten. However this may be, the Government has not yet been able to induce the spirits of the dead chieftains to accept the odds and a reservation out West, and here they remain, to this day, never leaving the Catskills, unless they meet some sensitive person in the glens by moonlight alone, and "control" them. Then these warriors send them forth into the cold, cruel world as mediums, to coin shakels from the curious and bring messages from the dead to the faithful. London, Paris, New York and other large cities have their share of the spirits of departed Catskill warriors, and many a message from the other world or pointer on stocks, which cost the listener from five to twenty-five dollars to get, has been brought by a Catskill Indian, who in life, would have sold all his possessions, given numberless pointers, and brought messages from a whole generation for a drink of strong whiskey or a string of glass beads.

Prices have risen, however, and taking the cue from his white brethren who get from four to five dollars per day in this section for two dollars board, and seventy cents fare for passing a ten-cent toll-gate, a Catskill warrior will bring no messages under five dollars, and generally wants more. You can always tell a Catskill Indian medium by this countersign of five dollars, while the Indians of the Adirondacks, the Alleghenies and the Rockies will bring messages at more reasonable rates. The mills of the gods are thus grinding out slow vengeance upon the present generation for the poor beads and poorer whiskey palmed off upon the Catskill Indians in days gone by.

HOW TO GET A CONTROL.

Sensitive persons, seeking high-priced Indian controls, can find them in the Catskills if they will wander alone through the glades under the rays of a full moon, and after the witching hour of eleven, p. m. At the foot of a pine tree they will find a little mound, or knoll, designated from ordinary knolls by a mountain cactus growing in the centre. This plant grows from the heart of the buried warrior beneath. Having found this, all that is now required is to carefully raise the dress, or coat-tail, as the case may be, and sit down on the plant, when immediately the spirit of the warrior beneath arises before you, and with a few movements of the hands, forever places the person under his control, and thenceforth they talk Indian with such fluency that Sitting Bull and other chiefs take a back seat, quite mystified, when they are about. This is the process as vouched for by those who have been there, and are now living in luxury as full-fledged mediums.

MEMOIRS OF RIP VAN WINKLE.

Everybody knows how poor Rip Van Winkle wandered up into these mountains, met Hendrick Hudson and his kindred spirits, helped carry a cask of liquor up Sleepy Hollow, drank some of the contents, fell asleep and awoke twenty years later to find his world changed, his friends dead, and himself an old man. Everybody didn't know, however, that previous to starting for the mountains, Rip had scalped his shrewish wife, and taken the scalp with him as a trophy. This is the case, however. Her scalp and the knife with which he performed the operation are both on exhibit in the little old hut in Sleepy Hollow. His fowling piece, his hunting knife, his pistol, his false teeth, and even his scalp are there. His daughter's ball shoes too, are shown, for while her poor father lay slumbering in the mountains fifteen miles away, Miss Judith Van Winkle was quite a bell in Catskill, went to balls, flirted, etc., and doesn't seem to have worried much over her drowsy parent's non-appearance. Her feet were large, if her bump of memory wasn't, as the shoes are quite roomy.

RIP'S ROCK, WHERE HE SLEPT.

Just above the hut alluded to, on the side of the steep mountain, stands the rock upon the top of which Rip wasted so many years in dreamless slumber. It is quite a mass, about eight feet high, and twelve broad, and after clambering to the top we were solemnly informed that certain prints and hollows in it were where his head and body had rested during his lengthy nap. We looked reverently at these prints and hollows, and thought of the finger prints in the rock from which Mahomet jumped to glory, while angels held the mass to earth, and prevented its heavenly flight after him, when it had followed him part way, leaving the impress of their fingers in the rock, as Mahomet left the print of his foot. We had always thought this a rather tough angel story, but were now prepared for anything in the rock line, and more than half expected to be shown the stone with which David killed Goliath, but by some oversight it had been omitted in laying in the spring assortment. To make up for this, however, we were shown the identical

RIP'S CHAIR.

In which he dozed away many an idle hour previous to his mountain experience. It was a pretty hard looking chair, and not suggestive of much comeliness, but presenting the appearance of having been made to order out of the ribs of an old buggy. Judging from the rock and the chair, Rip's resting place in this life should entice him to a soft seat in the other world by way of variety.

THE OLD HUT.

As it stands in Sleepy Hollow, is itself an interesting object, inasmuch as it is anywhere from one to two hundred years old, and is said to ante-date the Revolution. Over its one door is a large painting, after Joe Jefferson, of Rip's awakening, while beneath it are inscribed Washington Irving's words put into the mouth of Rip on this occasion "O, that flagon, that wicked flagon. What excuse shall I make to Dame Van Winkle." Within the hut, at the present day, a general assortment of punches, beer, candy and mixed drinks are kept, and in the season, as it is a sort of half way house up the mountains, it is quite profitable, $60 being taken in for drinks the day we were there. The proprietor pays $300 for the privilege, during the season, for the place, and keeps a boarding house adjoining, but his chief dependence is assuaging the thirst of tourists, and they do get awful thirsty tramping around the mountains.

None of the hotels in this section are paying yet, it being a little early, the three largest, Kaaterskill, Mountain and Laurel Houses, with accommodations for over 2000 guests, not being a quarter full. The season here only lasts for about eight weeks, and seems to be shortening up yearly. Fog hangs heavily over the mountains for a day at a time, and it rains frequently without any visible excuse, which may account for the non arrival of early guests.

THE OLD HUT AT SLEEPY HOLLOW.

A MOUNTAIN "TORNADO."

Leaving Rip and the other ghosts of Sleepy Hollow, we returned to the hotel, weary and footsore, and were soon down for a nap, as were the rest of the guests, but in the midst of sweet slumber our dreams were interrupted by a sound of distant trouble in the mountains, and dreamily wondering if Hendrick Hudson was playing ninepins again, we turned over.

But hark, that sound again, nearer and more distinct, like the sighing of the wind through mountain pines, or the distant rumble of rushing water through unseen caverns, varied with occasional accompaniments of falling trees, cracking branches and thunderous explosions, while ever and anon the shrill shriek of some perishing panther rose upon the breeze as he fell headlong from peak to precipice, borne by the resistless power of the insatiable Storm King of the Catskills, who had arisen in his wrath to wipe the pale faces from the face of the earth.

Yes—it was—a tornado. Thoroughly awakened and alarmed we were about to rush from the room with our valuables, (a cane and umbrella) when a stentorian voice across the hall yelled:

"If you must kill him, for Heaven's sake take him to the woods."

And then from another room came in louder accents:

"Burn him up. Set him afire."

And another irreverent piously yelled:

"God bless the quiet country."

While a fourth added:

"I'd just like to see anybody sleep in this hotel. Hang babies, anyhow."

A MOUNTAIN "TORNADO."

The mystery was explained. A little two year old descendant of Abraham had contracted to mourn for the lost tribes of Israel, and for two hours had lifted up his voice and wept, sobbed, howled and shrieked alternately. Further sleep being out of the question, and everybody being up, a hasty retreat was made to the piazzas, leaving little Albert master of the situation, and still yelling.

SALTING PATHS.

Every one knows how difficult it is to remove weeds from the garden walk when they have once become rooted and grounded. Salt is one of the remedies most frequently employed, and the following is said to be the best way of applying it: Boil the salt in water, one pound to the gallon, and pour the mixture boiling hot out of a watering pot with spreading rose. This will keep weeds and worms away for two or three years. In subsequent applications the solution may be some what weaker. It will be as well to take care that none of the liquid falls on the garden mold.

THE SENTINEL sends congratulations to them and so do the numerous Fort Wayne friends of the Judge. On their return here the Judge and his bride will be tendered a reception at the Fox house, on East Wayne street.

HITS IT RICH.

John Jennings, a Former Fort Wayne Jockey, Heir to a Big Fortune.

It is reported that the litigation over the celebrated estate of John Jennings, of Enfield, England, has at last terminated, after having been in the courts for a period of over thirty years.

The estate is valued at over $30,000,000, and has a large number of claimants in this country. John Jennings died nearly 100 years ago, and for a long time no heirs could be found. They afterward became so plentiful that thirty years ago a convention was held at Nashville, and it was attended by nearly a hundred claimants for the property.

The Louisville Courier-Journal writes the estate up at length and names as nearest heirs Theodore Jennings, of Greencastle, Ind., Mrs. Joseph Enders, of Louisville, and John Jennings, of Fort Wayne. Mr. Jennings used to live here and was something of a jockey having owned the celebrated trotting horse Anthony Wayne, in his palmyest days.

One has white stripe in face, off one, barefooted all around, the other shod in front, one had wart on the ear. Also from Chauncey Worden, one two-seated top carriage front seat had lazyback, back seat full cushion, back plate on carriage marked H. Kellogg, Hudson, Mich."

This order applies not only to the year 1885, but to each succeeding year until recalled. An indulgence of seven years and seven quadragesims will be granted to all for each time they participate in this public devotion, and every person who attends ten times may gain a plenary indulgence upon church conditions.

This afternoon Mrs. Lew Clark was hastily driven to the Oliver house and confronting her husband notified him not to sell their household furniture. The annual synod of the Presbyterian church for the entire state convened at Logansport yesterday, the initial service being held at the First Presbyterian church last evening. Extensive arrangements have been made and the indications are that the meeting will be the largest and most interesting one of the kind ever held in the state. One hundred and seventy-five delegates have already signified their intention of being present. Arrangements have been made by the two Presbyterian churches to entertain all the visitors. The opening sermon was preached by the moderator, Rev. Charles Little, of Wabash.

Rev. J. F. Kendall, D. D., of Laporte, was unanimously elected moderator, of the Synod, for the coming year, and Elder R. P. Effinger, of Peru, was chosen chief clerk. The Synod will be in session until Monday.

Asking Hibler's Pardon.

A petition has been presented to Governor Gray, asking for the pardon of Louis Hibler, who was convicted of wife murder in the Allen circuit court in 1873, and sentenced to prison for life. The petition says that he was a "kind husband and father" and has deported himself well in prison. Hibler has made many friends and his paper is numerously signed by Fort Wayne people, who seem to have forgiven him and forgotten his crime.

The receipts of the LaGrange county fair were about $1,800, an increase of some $100 over any previous fair held there. The amount though will barely pay expenses for improvements to be carried over.

Why Is It

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate?

It is—

1st. Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d. Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

Coroner's Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that on Sunday evening, October 4, 1885, at a fire which took place on the fair grounds near the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana, burned to death an unknown man. A POLITICAL DISCUSSION
the Speakers.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
LYNCHBURG, Va., Oct. 9.—Yesterday
at Appomattox court house, Capt. George
S. Blair, a republican, and A. A. Pfeiffer,
a democrat, speakers at a political meeting turned a friendly greeting into a quarrel during which Pfeiffer struck Blair in the face and several blows. Friends interposed, however, and several persons
grasped Pfeiffer's hand. It is said by those present that while Pfeiffer was being held Blair struck him a light blow in the face, which so incensed a young Lynchburger, who was present, that the
to cut Blair by some one in the crowd,
learned.

Suicide.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
weeks ago Clarence Clark, formerly a wealthy druggist, committed suicide,
and yesterday afternoon his wife took
opium and died. Mrs. Clark was a member of one of the most respectable
families in this state and formerly lived in Wilkesbarre. Soon after their marriage Clark took to drinking heavily and
lost all his money. The wife became
eater. They lived miserably in a hotel.
After her husband's death she drank more, and yesterday afternoon she was found dead in her bed with a phial of opium in her hand. By her side was a note, which read: "I have wasted my

SHOOTING REDSKINS.
For a Reward Offered for Their
Scalps.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
DENVER, N. M., Oct. 9.—Reports are coming in from various parts of Arizona
that the old pioneers of that territory,
Indian scalps, made by several of the
counties in Arizona, have started out on a hunt for red skins with a view of obtaining their scalps. They think this is the most practical method yet sug-
war.

for a few minutes played about from the cabin to foremast, prostrating the cap-port the fiery visitor disappeared as suddenly as it appeared without damaging mittee of the National State Committee New York.

DEAR SIR.—It is my intention to go to Albany next month for the purpose of voting the democratic ticket, which should be, and I believe will be elected.
I have no doubt that President Cleveland will do likewise. While governor of the state he never failed to go to Buffalo to exercise his right, and I am sure he feels it to be his duty to do so Verdict Late to Hand.

When the system is so badly run down that it is like an old boot which has been half-soled and laced several times, and mental debility goes hand in hand with physical debility, then it might seem too late to try reoperation.
No sir! Not as long as you can get a

HOADLY HANDLES

Judge Foraker in a Rather Robust Manner at the Toledo Meeting Last Night.

Hoadly Defines Himself Against Prohibition and in Favor of Personal Liberty.

The Rambling Talk of Foraker on Matters in General Tire His Hearers.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Joint Discussion Between Messrs.
Hoadly and Foraker.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.
TOLEDO, O., October 8.—The audience which assembled to hear the Hoadly-Foraker debate, to-night
filled Wheeler's opera house to the ut-
chairman of the meeting on the part of
the Republicans and Hon. Frank Hurd
for the Democrats. The time of the speakers was limited as follows: Governor Hoadly opened with one hour;
Judge Foraker then occupied an hour
and a half and Hoadly closed with half an hour.

Governor Hoadly in opening, de-
issue in the campaign is the question of
personal liberty and how far it should be interfered with by law, as to habits
of drinking. He then proceeded to
platforms of each. He defined the
plan in the Republican platform recognizing the right of the people to
that the point was, how far the law
habits of the citizens of the
state. The answer to it, depended on the answer to another question, "Is drinking a vice?"
Is it harmful or wrong to take one
glass of beer or wine? Is a man to be allowed to indulge in moderate drink-
drinking be a vice, selling liquor is a vice, but if a man of self-control, who
takes a drink on a farm, does no harm,
then he does no harm to drink in a saloon." He referred to the local option feature of the Scott law and anathematized the Scott law for this feature. He defined himself as opposed to partial prohibition
personal freedom to the fullest extent.
The speaker elaborated the point that if wrong in one place drinking was wrong in all—right in one place right in all. The conclusion was that legislation must be directed against the
the right direction of temperance
legislation, within cities or without. He stated that prohibition is a failure;
in Maine, in Kansas and in Iowa.
He insisted that prohibition is the issue
in Ohio, because the next legislature
will be asked to pass prohibition legislation. He desired to know if Foraker is elected governor, whether he will,
mission to the people of the prohibition amendment to the constitution.
He demanded to know whether, if the Republican supreme court was elected, if it will reverse the late decision that the Scott law is unconstitutional, and compel saloon-keepers to pay back the taxes. He declared that there were but two methods of settling the temperance question—prohibition and license.
The Scott law was but a bastard kind of license. Declared that he favors a graded license, measured according to the amount of sales. License protects, insures personal liberty and crushes out owls from under the mist. Declared for taxation as a revenue power, not police power, as the Scott law made it.
That law proved a failure, as a public measure, because more United States licenses were issued the year it was in force, than in the present year. The speaker closed with a brief legal argument to show that taxation is really license and unconstitutional; challenged Foraker to state why he favors local prohibition in municipalities and is not in favor of prohibition in the whole state. He is in favor of the Scott law, the ninth section of which gives municipalities the power to enact a prohibition. He compared Foraker to a Sandwich man with a placard in front, "Not for prohibition," on the back placard, "Not against prohibition," and challenged him to state whether he is in favor of prohibition opposed to it.

Tremendous cheering followed the speech, when Judge Doyle introduced Judge Foraker, who, after the applause subsided, began by referring to several minor points in Hoadly's speech. He then said that from the character of Hoadly's remarks, he evidently understood the speaker for Dr.
Lecount, the prohibition candidate for governor. The Republican plank in the liquor traffic, is one of the most explicit declarations. First it denounces the Democrats for the repeal Scott law, second recognizing the right of the people to amend the constitution; third and fourth declaring in favor of the regulation and taxation of the traffic. He read from Hoadly's inaugural address a paragraph in which the Governor said the Scott law ought not to be repealed. Regarding the right of the people to change the constitution, he showed the Democratic platform on license to arraign the constitution. He also showed that the Democratic plan for license cannot be adopted without first amending the constitution which forbids license. The Republican platform declares in favor of the regulation of the evils of the liquor traffic. Hoadly had just acknowledged that the evils ought to be corrected. The speaker then took up Hoadly's argument, that it is not competent for the legislature to tax the liquor traffic, and pointed out that the Democratic supreme court, in deciding the Scott law unconstitutional, did not decide that the principle of taxation was unconstitutional, but that the feature of the law, making the tax on the traffic, a lien on the property occupied as saloons, was unconstitutional. He also made the point that the same supreme court decided that the tax collected from the liquor dealers, should not be returned. The speaker demanded of Hoadly whether he was in favor of high or low graded license; a $1,000 or a $500 one. How he would provide for securing license?

Whether as in the constitutional convention of 1872, he was in favor of the taxation of the churches and schoolhouses of the state.
The speaker believed in letting them go free. Religion and education are necessary to the welfare of the people.
Foraker then turned his attention to the last legislation, which he declared was the most infamous corrupt in the history of the state. So corrupt that while Hoadly approves of it, yet the coal oil members are believed to have sold their vote to elect Payne senator. And they were all dropped by their constituents. The speaker read charges of corruption and bribery in election of senator Payne, made by a number of Democratic journals.

He then turned to the Democratic management of the Ohio penitentiary.
He said that in this institution, under the last year of Governor Foster's administration, there had been a net profit of over $33,000, while the next year, under the Democratic rule, this had been reduced to $10,000, $23,000 of which was realized from the Republican system of management in vogue when they took hold of it. He then read the financial statements, for the first nine months of the present year, showing a deficit, while the total loss to date has been, as compared with the Republican administration, over ninety-six thousand dollars, as the price the people pay for Democratic mismanagement. Is it, he said, not time for a change of administration?
The legislature has undertaken to lay violent hands on the principle of local self-government. He then referred to the so-called "Ripper" bills, organizing Cincinnati, and other cities of the state in the interest of the Democratic party. The speaker promised to speak in full of the Cincinnati "Ripper" bill in his Saturday night speech in that city. He recounted the provisions of the bill to reorganize the city of Columbus, and pointed out the outrageous character of the scheme, giving to the board of control, all the powers of all city departments, with power to make every appointment of every grade, giving that board absolute power to name every officer of the city, except only the mayor, who was stripped of every power and left a mere figurehead. It was a practical disfranchisement of the citizens of Columbus. The personal liberty of the people was only preserved by the supreme court deciding the measure unconstitutional.

Mr. Foraker closed by referring to Hoadly's record in the constitutional convention and asked him if he was still opposed to having any mention of God in the state constitution? Whether he still opposed, as he did then, a provision for impeaching judges for drunkenness, whether he was still in favor of taxing churches and schools? Foraker declared he was not in favor of taxing them as he regarded religion and morality as the safeguard of the nation. He closed by again asking if Hoadly favored high license or low license; a $1,000 or a $50 license.

His close was greeted with rounds of cheers, and Hoadly stepped forward and said twice "Dodged again." He talked for an hour and a half and no human being can tell whether he is for prohibition or against it." He called attention to the fact that holding republican, secretary of state, was one of the refunding commission who made the bond contract which he (Hoadly) had vetoed. The speaker then turned to the prohibition question and characterized Foraker as the candidate who could take refuge in profound silence on the most vital question of the campaign. Regarding the comments on the election of Senator Payne, which Foraker read from Democratic papers, Hoadly said when there is suspicion of double dealing in the Democratic party. Democrats are up in arms protesting, but in the Republican ranks there is silence when corruptions are on foot. As to his structures on the penitentiary management, he showed there were two Republican members of the board and there has never been a protest against the actions of the board from them.

The penitentiary came to the Democrats with noshing but the walls and the prisoners and the return. The state has made no money, but it is because of the change from the convict contract, to the piece price system. He declared that the expenses of the state government in his two years, had been one hundred and forty-one thousand dollars less, than last two years of the Republican administration. Disputed Foraker's statement of extravagance in state expenditure. Regarding the decision of the supreme court, as to refunding the Scott law tax, to the liquor dealers, Hoadly noted the fact the decision was made by a bench of three judges, two of whom were Republicans. He extolled the liquor repeal of the state, repealed by the Scott law and declared it provided perfectly against the evils of drinking to excess. He declared in favor of a low license, as against high license; for license as against prohibition. Did not favor license so high it would prohibit. Regarding the Columbus "Ripper" bill, Hoadly showed up the Republican reorganization of Cincinnati twenty years ago, from which he declared the Columbus bill to be copied. He closed with a severe arraignment of the Republican party for inconsistency while expressing the kindest feelings for Foraker personally.

Round after round of cheers for both speakers were given, as the meeting closed. The order was excellent and the immense audience paid the closest attention throughout.

John Jennings, a Former Fort Wayne Jockey, Heir to a Big Fortune.

It is reported that the litigation over the celebrated estate of John Jennings, of Enfield, England, has at last terminated, after having been in the courts for a period of over thirty years.

The estate is valued at over $80,000,000, and has a large number of claimants in this country. John Jennings died nearly 100 years ago, and for a long time no heirs could be found. They afterward became so plentiful that thirty years ago a convention was held at Nashville, and it was attended by nearly a hundred claimants for the property.

The Louisville Courier-Journal writes the estate up at length and names as nearest heirs Theodore Jennings, of Greencastle, Ind.; Mrs. Joseph Enders, of Louisville, and John Jennings, of Fort Wayne. Mr. Jennings used to live here and was something of a jockey, having owned the celebrated trotting horse Anthony Wayne, in his palmy days.

After Stolen Horses.

Sheriff Myron C. Wood, of Hilldale, Mich., is here in search of horse thieves. He hands us this card: "$75 reward—team stolen from the farm of Thomas Baakerville, in Pittsford, on the night of October 6, 1885. One span of dark bay geldings, weight about 1,100 pounds. One has white stripes in face, off one, horn-tipped all around, the other shod in front, one had wart on the ear. Also from Chauncey Worden, one two-seated top carriage front seat had layback, back seat full cushion, back plate on carriage marked H. Kellogg, Hudson, Mich."

Sheriff Nelson is assisting Sheriff Wood in the matter, but it is hard to get on the track of the thieves.

A Period of Prayer.

There will be prayer services and devotions to the Virgin Mary at the Cathedral to-night. In obedience to the decree of Pope Leo XII, published on the 20th of August, 1885, in all Roman Catholic parishes, having a resident pastor, five decades of the Holy Rosary and the Litany of the Blessed Virgin will be publicly recited each day from October 1st to November 2d. This order applies not only to the year 1885, but to each succeeding year until recalled. An indulgence of seven years and seven quadrages will be granted to all for each time they participate in this public devotion, and every person who attends ten times may gain a plenary indulgence upon church conditions.

THE CLARKS

Have Another Little Family Jar this Afternoon.

This afternoon Mrs. Low Clark was hastily driven to the Oliver home and confronting her husband notified him not to sell their household furniture. The goods were all piled up in a room ready for shipment. Mrs. Clark headed it off. Low and she have not buried the hatchet by a long shot, and are energetically watching each other, awaiting a division of their property in court.

The Presbyterian Synod.

The annual synod of the Presbyterian church for the entire state convened at Logansport yesterday, the initial service being held at the First Presbyterian church last evening. Extensive arrangements have been made and the indications are that the meeting will be the largest and most interesting one of the kind ever held in the state. One hundred and seventy-five delegates have already signified their intention of being present. Arrangements have been made by the two Presbyterian churches to entertain all the visitors. The opening sermon was preached by the moderator, Rev. Charles Little, of Wabash.

Rev. J. F. Kendall, D. D., of Laporte, was unanimously elected moderator, of the Synod, for the coming year, and Elder R. P. Effinger, of Peru, was chosen chief clerk. The Synod will be in session until Monday.

Asking Hilder's Pardon.

A petition has been presented to Governor Gray, asking for the pardon of Louis Hilder, who was convicted of wife murder in the Allen circuit court in 1873, and sentenced to prison for life. The petition says that he was a "kind husband and father" and has deported himself well in prison. Hilder has made many friends and his paper is numerous signed by Fort Wayne people, who seem to have forgiven him and forgotten his crime.

The receipts of the LaGrange county fair were about $1,800, an increase of some $100 over any previous fair held there. The amount though will barely pay expenses for improvements to be carried over.

That the sale of Hood's Sarsaparilla continues at such a rapidly increasing rate? It is—

1st. Because of the positive curative value of Hood's Sarsaparilla itself.

2d. Because of the conclusive evidence of remarkable cures effected by it, unsurpassed and seldom equalled by any other medicine. Send to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass., for book containing many statements of cures.

Coroner's Notice.

Notice is hereby given, that on Sunday evening, October 4, 1885, at a fire which took place on the fair grounds near the city of Fort Wayne, Indiana, burned to death an unknown man. He was supposed to be about thirty years old, five feet nine inches tall and weight about one hundred and fifty pounds.
